Safety Director Weighs Bribery Charges

MUMAW CLAIMS $10 BORROWED FROM W. HICKEY

Testimony Of Open Gambling In Circleville Heard At Friday Hearing

MAYOR CADY ON STAND

Herrmann Takes Case Under Adversity; No Date Set For Decision

With Safety Director Karl J. Herrmann, Saturday, rested testimony of alleged bribery against Patrolman Charles Mumaw, introduced Friday evening in a hearing that lasted until a few minutes before midnight. The hearing also brought admission of gambling being operated openly in the community, and a statement by Mayor W. B. Cady that he had given orders to the police department to halt gambling without apparent effect.

Herrmann has taken the case under advisement, and Saturday had not announced when he would return a decision. He has authority to dismiss the charges or uphold them, in which case Mumaw would likely appeal to the Civil Service Commission for reinstatement.

At 11:50 Friday night after ten witnesses had been examined and cross examined, Attorneys Ray Davis and C. A. Leist for Mumaw and Attorney Paul Adkins for Police Chief McCrady, put the case into the lap of the safety director.

After the alleged bribery charges against Mumaw had been read, Roy Wallis, East Ohio Street, who charged Mumaw with soliciting bribes from him on two different occasions, took the witness stand. In the testimony which followed, Wallis said that on August 18, Mumaw had met him at The Sportsman, East Main Street establishment, and had asked him for $10. Wallis said: "Mr. Mumaw was under the influence of alcohol and said I'd have to pay him $10 or he'd knock off my poker games." Wallis continued, saying that when he had refused to give the suspended patrolman the $10 Mumaw had gone to William Hickey, West Main Street, and obtained the money.

Signed Affidavits

When cross-questioned by Attorney Davis, Wallis related the story again, adding that on August 19, Police Chief McCrady and Joe Brink, member of the Civil Service Commission, had come to his home to seek information concerning the bribery charges. He said he had voluntarily signed the affidavits charging Mumaw with soliciting bribes when asked to do so by Chief McCrady.

William Hickey, next witness to take the stand, confirmed Wallis's statements about Mumaw coming to him for the $10. Attorney Leist asked him "Why did (Continued on Page Eight)"

In his Lausanne, Switzerland, laboratory, Dr. Gerard C. Savoy has developed an antidote for mustard gas. Italy, Germany's axis-partner, predicts gas will soon be used in the war.

ROME — Italy gives England only two weeks more to hold out against Germany, it was reported today. Widespread reports said that plans have been completed for a display of flags throughout Italy on October 1 "when the conquest of England may be expected."

NEW YORK — Stories of atrocities allegedly committed by Romanian troops in Transylvania were related in a broadcast by the government-controlled Hungarian radio picked up in New York today by the Columbia Broadcasting System. The broadcast charged Romanian troops sacked Koloszar, fired on a policeman, pillaged stores and removed "even the gratings over sewers and the doors from ovens."

EIGHT PROBES ON IN FATAL BLAST IN NEW JERSEY

KENVIL, N. J., Sept. 14—Eight separate investigations were under way today into the cause of the explosion that destroyed part of the Hercules Powder Plant here Thursday, as a crew of 200 workmen searched the debris for bodies of further victims and for evidence of sabotage.

The death toll stood at 42 and of these six were unidentified and their bodies were so mutilated that identification may never be made. Thirteen persons were listed as missing. Seventy-four of the nearly 300 persons injured in the blast were in nearby hospitals and several of them were in critical condition.

The possibility of sabotage remained paramount in the interests of the federal, state and local agencies investigating the blast. So far there was no definite evidence of saboteurs, nor was there definite rejection of this theory. The confusion and mystery cloaking the disaster was so great that experts said it might be weeks before the cause was discovered.

Fingerprints of employees, including those of new men taken on recently in the rush of work occasioned by huge government contracts, were understood to have been sent to FBI headquarters in Washington to be compared with prints of criminals and aliens on file.

THREE B.I.S. BOYS SOUGHT

LANCASTER, Sept. 14—Three more inmates who ran away from the Boys' Industrial School were sought by authorities today. They were Richard Blair, 16, of Columbus Station, Lorain County; Robert Barnell, 17, of Youngstown, and Elsworth Eldik, 16, of Columbus.

BRITISH BLAST AT 'NAZI PORTS OF DEBARKATION

Waves Of Airplanes Cross Channel To Bomb Many French Centers

BARRAGES ARE BRAVED

German Troops, Guns, Ships Damaged By Attackers, London Claims

LONDON, Sept. 14—From dusk to dawn, it was revealed today, British bombers blasted French channel ports in a tremendous new offensive against German continental "springboards" for an invasion of England.

Hurling down huge bombs that shook even Britain's southeastern shoreline as they fell, the RAF raiders ranged up and down the Nazi-held French coast, spreading destruction from the south of Boulogne to others north of Dunkerque.

Observers on the English Coast facing Calais reported that the British planes dived into a terrific anti-aircraft barrage of tracer fire.

But above all else, they said, the flashes of bomb hits were visible, indicating the British planes were using bombs of highest calibre. Thuds of the exploding missiles caused reverberations that shook the entire southeastern English coast.

The battle reached such intensity, observers added, that the whole French coastline appeared on fire.

At the same time, all through the night, searchlight and aerial activity was reported along the southeast English coast, evidently as a precaution against a possible surprise Nazi invasion attempt on this most crucial week end of the war.

Relays of British bombers hurtled across the channel hour after hour to attack the German invasion bases, causing a fire-laden havoc easily seen from the English coast.

German troops, guns and ships massed in readiness for an invasion were believed to have been rocked and buffeted by the British attack.

The assaults were particularly heavy in the Cap Gris Nez region near Calais. Watchers on the Dover cliffs saw massive pillars of flame shoot high into the air. Nazi anti-aircraft batteries hurled "flaming onions" into the heavens by the hundreds.

It was apparent that the R. A. F. was throwing increasing forces of men and machines into the battle to break up the German preparations. At the same time, a drive to paralyze the railway network supply German coastal bases was revealed as a major part of the British counter-offensive.

DUKE CONCERNED BY NAZI ATTACK ON ROYAL PALACE

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor today felt deeply thankful for the "providential escape" of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in the German bombing attack on Buckingham Palace.

The former British monarch, now governor of the Bahama Islands, last night cabled a special statement of Nassau to International News Service in response to a message informing him of the palace bombing.

It said: "Thank you for your telegram. I am at the moment without detailed information regarding the bombing of Buckingham Palace. "I would however wish to express by heartfelt thanks which are shared by the duchess and the people of the Bahamas for the providential escape of the king and queen in today's (Friday's) bombing attack which has been launched on London. "Edward, Duke of Windsor."

SEARCH ON FOR MASKED YEGGS

Federal Men Joined In Hunt For Three Who Robbed Zanesville Bank

ZANESVILLE, Sept. 14—Federal, state and local authorities today joined forces in their search for three unmasked gunmen who held up the downtown office of the Mutual Federal Savings and Loan Company and escaped with $2,200.

Police Capt. Milt Stotts admitted that he had been unable to obtain a description of the gunmen. The bandits, threatening to "blow the head off" any employee who turned in an alarm, herded five workers and 15 customers into a back room, scooped the money into a bag from drawers and counters, and fled in a waiting auto.

Highway patrolmen said they were furnished with no description of the car, which was believed to be without license plates.

MOVE MADE FOR WESTERN ARMY, NAVY ACADEMY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—A move to establish both "a junior Annapolis and West Point" on the Pacific Coast was launched in congress today as a possible compromise with stubborn departmental opposition to construction of full-fledged naval and military academies in the West.

The move followed introduction of a bill by Rep. Toland (D) Cal. to appropriate $10,000,000 to build a naval academy similar to the one at Annapolis in the San Francisco bay area.

This measure immediately met a blank wall of opposition at the Navy Department. Commenting on it, Chairman Vinson (D) Cal. of the house naval affairs committee, said:

"I am bitterly opposed to the idea. It is unnecessary and would merely be a duplication of overhead and lead to disunity."

To get around this opposition, Rep. Costello (D) Cal., a member of the military affairs committee who toyed with the idea of an army academy similar to New York's West Point for his state, said he was considering a bill to construct "junior" training schools in the West.

EIGHT RAILROAD CARS WRECKED; LOSS $100,000

PINE CITY, Minn., Sept. 14—Rail officials today investigated the derailment of eight cars of a Northern Pacific train here yesterday, which resulted in injuries to 15 persons and caused damage estimated at $100,000.

The cars were loaded with gasoline, fuel oil and coal, and half an hour after the accident one of the fuel cars exploded, scattering an estimated 200 onlookers. The depot and all but one of the cars were destroyed in the blaze that followed.

SENATORS APPROVE REVISED DRAFT BILL; SO DOES HOUSE

Stronger Draft-Industry Provision Put In By 36-33 Ballot

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—In a history-making move, congress today passed the conscription bill and sent it to President Roosevelt for his signature. The measure, which calls up 16,500,000 men between ages of 21 and 35 inclusive for a year's military training, was approved by the house shortly after the senate oked revisions made in conference. The President will sign the bill Monday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—The Senate today approved a conference report on the revised Conscription Bill and sent the measure back to the House so that the lower branch might complete congressional action.

The vote was 47 to 25, and was taken without discussion. The measure had been revamped overnight by a joint Senate-House conference committee to meet Senate demands for a strong "draft-industry" provision.

The possibility of rebellion springing up over other provisions of the measure confronted leaders in charge of the legislation, although they hoped to send the measure to the White House tonight.

The attack on the revised draft-industry section was led by Sen. Russell (D) Georgia, who contended that the conference report recommendation made it virtually impossible for the government to seize an industry whose heads refused to cooperate in carrying out the defense program.

The controversy arose over action of conferees in providing that an industry could be taken over only "if the public necessity is immediate, and the emergency in the public service is imperative, and such as will not admit of a resort to any other source of supply."

"The restrictions create doubt that any industry refusing to cooperate in the defense program could be taken over," Russell said. Sen. Wheeler (D) Montana charged that the whole draft-industry section had been nullified.

Members of the conference committee which approved the revision—including Sens. Sheppard (D) Texas, Minton (D) Indiana, Thomas (D) Utah and Gurney (D) South Dakota—offered virtually no defense.

PHRASE OF FOUR WILLKIE WORDS FLAYED BY DEMS

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—From the roaring welcome to Chicago, Wendell Willkie headed today into the small towns and medium sized cities of Illinois and Iowa with his campaign for the presidency.

The mid-west citadel of "democracy" really put on a show for the candidate and the candidate returned the honor. He delivered five speeches during the day, rolling out some 6,000 words without hesitancy, including four which the regional headquarters of the Democratic campaign quickly seized on to make political ammunition.

Those four were "to hell with Chicago" spoken with a grin when he addressed a crowd outside the (Continued on Page Eight)

Here Are Details About New Conscription Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—The Burke-Wadsworth Conscription Bill, as laid before congress for final action, provides:

Male citizens and aliens who have declared their intention of becoming citizens, must register and are liable for training and service if between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive.

President is authorized to determine the number to be inducted, but the limit under the bill is 900,000 at one time. The act is effective until May 15, 1945.

CHIEF OF UNION FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT CHARGES

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—George Scalise, former president of the Building Service Employees International Union, today was found guilty of embezzlement of the union's funds.

A blue ribbon jury returned a verdict of guilty against Scalise shortly after 5 a. m. today after nearly eighteen hours deliberation.

The jury found the former union chief guilty on one count of grand larceny and four counts of third degree forgery. It disagreed on the five remaining counts in the indictment.

Originally charged with theft of $60,087 from the union, the jury found Scalise guilty only on the specific count of embezzling $2,857 of the union's funds last March 29.

Scalise was unmoved by the verdict and was remanded to the toms for sentence, September 27. His attorney, Martin W. Littleton, said bail would be arranged for the former labor leader later today or Monday.

He faces a possible prison sentence of from ten to twenty years on each conviction count.

Prushing, who served as a captain during the World War, had been sales manager of the Jeffrey Manufacturing Company for 25 years.

OHIO U. PREXY TAKES SLAP AT "ANTI" SOCIETIES

ATHENS, O., Sept. 14—Subversive groups will not be tolerated on the campus of Ohio University, President Herman G. James declared today in reply to a written request from the Athens American Legion Post for an expression against un-Americanism.

"Communists, Fascists, Nazis and their fellow travelers are unwelcome in the faculty or student body," Dr. James declared. "People with these leanings should recognize that this is not the time to see how far they can go in exercising their freedom of speech before their house of cards falls down on them."

Dr. James delivered his answer at the first faculty meeting of the school year. A local newspaper editorial recently asserted that Communist forces "had been allowed to run rampant" on the campus.

DESTRUCTION OF CITY PROMISED IN EIGHT DAYS

Five Thousand Killed, Says Berlin, And Industries Of Empire Crippled

CHURCHILL GIVEN BLAME

Efforts To Evacuate May Be Too Late, Declare Reich Spokesmen

BERLIN, Sept. 14—With 5,000 persons already dead and its major industries crippled, London now faces the sole alternative of surrender or complete destruction, official German circles charged today.

Unless the British capital avails itself of a "last chance" of salvation, the fate of Warsaw awaits it, these circles said. Immediate surrender will enable preservation of what remains, spokesmen said, advising London to follow the example of Paris.

At the same time, however, military quarters admitted that London's ground defenses have been revitalized.

Intensification of the German air raids has caused terrific damage, it was said, and during the next eight days London's future existence as capital of the British Empire will be "fundamentally affected" for all time.

German circles blame Prime Minister Winston Churchill for continuation of the Nazi attacks.

Thousands Sacrificed

"Under his regime," spokesmen said, "tens of thousands will be sacrificed cold-bloodedly in a war which England is no longer able to win."

Asserting that German air attacks will continue without interruption, military circles said that the 5,000 already claimed as dead "will not be the last."

"Neither present nor future losses can be blamed on the Reich airforce," it was said. "Responsibility lies on the shoulders of the British government which started the war."

According to qualified Nazi sources, efforts to evacuate London now are too late and will simply cause a panicky exodus, expelling refugees to the rigors of hunger and bad weather.

"It's jumping from the frying pan into the fire," the spokesmen continued.

"It is therefore clear murder for civilians, in which the Reich air forces want no responsibility."

British non-military air attacks on Germany now seem to have ceased, it was said, but this will not prevent the German air force from continuing raids on England.

"It merely indicates the R. A. F. is no longer able to carry out organized bombing flights," it was said.

(Editor's Note: The British government today announced violent R. A. F. attacks on German invasion bases and concentration points along the English Channel.)

Ratio 10 For One

The same circles declared that Britain should not assume cessation of British raids on Germany means that the "retaliation bill" is settled on the grounds that ten Englishmen have been killed for every German.

"On the contrary," it was said, "the British have carried the war to the Reich and the German air force is now paying off the bill on England."

London itself is unique in being a concentrated military, economic and industrial center where the empire's heart throbs and where military objectives, scattered throughout the city, "must be eradicated." Bombing attacks such as (Continued on Page Eight)

Gene Herron, 18, of New Philadelphia, and Dewey Lambert, 42, of Barnesville, were electrocuted Tuesday while wiring the new Zanesville Municipal stadium.

TIGERS AND ROSARY PLAY SCORELESS TIE IN SEASON'S FIRST GAME

Crack of Final Gun Ends Drive For Touchdown

Herculean Play Of Red And Black Line Keeps Columbus Team's Offensive Bugged Down; Trego's Interception Prevents Score

For the first time since 1936, Circleville High School's football team has started its season without a defeat, and fans were almost unanimous today that the 1940 edition of Coach Roy Black's varsity might go places this season if a few "ifs" and "ands" develop properly. The Tigers didn't win their opener, either, because the gun cracked just as everything pointed to a Tiger score in the lidlifter Friday against Columbus Rosary. The game ended 0-0.

The tilt was a honey from a crowd's standpoint, although several disheartening breaks that might have forced another team to give up hurt the Red and Black at times when had Dame Fortune been smiling in the proper direction the outcome would have been entirely different. One of these breaks was a fumbled punt in the final period, and another was a mixup which resulted in a pass from center going wild. Rosary recovering the ball both times.

George Trego On Spot

But a break came Circleville's way, too, in the final session when husky George Trego, only a sophomore and with lots and lots of football in his rangy system, stepped into the spotlight to pull a Rosary pass that was meant to bring pay dirt. The play took place on the eight yard line, and Trego's long fingers might have been just the things the Tigers needed to get them started right.

An exchange of punts after Trego's interception resulted in Rosary putting the ball into play on its own 32. The Tigers held and forced the Irish to punt, Carl Eby taking the ball back to the 44 where the Tigers put it in play.

Only three and one-half minutes of play remained when the Tigers picked up a couple of yards on a smash and then were aided by a five yard offside penalty. The Tigers made it first down on the Rosary 47. Geib swung around left end for 12 yards and a first down. Jenkins picked up two, and a Staley to Geib pass put the ball on the 22 for another first down. Bob Kline came into the lineup after this play and on the next signal he passed another to Geib that took the ball to the 10. Before another play could be made the gun sounded.

The threat was the second one the Red and Black made during the evening, a second quarter drive reaching the 15 yard line with passes by Staley to tall Paul Jackson and to Bob Moon moving the ball down the field. A fumble lost 10, and two passes were no good before the ball was kicked out of bounds just as the half ended.

Rosary's scoring threats came as the result of breaks. A Circleville half back fumbled a Rosary punt in the third period the Irish covering on the Circleville 30. Two plays were smashed before Staley made a shoestring interception of a low pass.

During the series of plays a pass from center went wild when a

CHAPMAN AND McCULLOUGH MEET IN AMATEUR TEST

By Lawton Carver

Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., Sept. 14 — Dick Chapman, a socially prominent young man who tosses off arias as a part-time crooner in various joints, and W. B. (Duff) McCullough, a salesman of automobile appearances, encountered each other here today in a unique duel for the National Amateur Golf championship.

Chapman, who is everlastingly wielding a golf cane at one place or another, still is capable of shooting scores that would make a novice weep. McCullough, almost a total stranger to the big headlines, is scarcely more than a greatly surprised week end golfer, but one who can and does play his shots with enchanting skill. It was a hot and cold guy against nerve-cracking steadiness. You pick the winner in this one at 36 holes.

FOES OF TIGERS HIT HIGH TOTALS

Greenfield, Lancaster And Washington C. H. Hot; Wilmington In Tie

That Circleville High will be playing football this year in tough competition was proved Friday evening when several of the Red and Black's opponents ran up big scores on teams chosen as "warm-ups" for the openers.

West Jefferson, Tiger foe next week, was scheduled to play the Columbus West Reserves, but the score has not been learned.

Lancaster's big team knocked off Bremen in a 52-0 contest, Bob Bradford running for three touchdowns, Householder, Miller, Bob Radebaugh and Kline also scoring, Radebaugh twice. The first Golden Gate touchdown came on the second scrimmage play. Lancaster outwitted Bremen many pounds to the man, and Kerr and West, both reported injured last week, were in the starting lineup.

Greenfield McClain closed the gates of mercy to run up a 63-0 score on Bob Terhune's small and inexperienced Clarksburg club. McClain, led by Newland who scored five touchdowns, scored three times in the first period, twice in the second, twice in the third and three times in the final.

Washington C. H. was scored on by Frankfort, but carried off a 45-7 victory, the Blue Lions scoring three touchdowns in the first period and in each quarter after that.

Wilmington and Xenia Central played a thrilling 7-7 tie, Dale Minton, junior halfback, running 68 yards for the Hurricane's touchdown.

Coach Black used six ends in the first half, but kept Trego and Jackson on the flanks through nearly all of the last half. Sabine and Liston played the entire game at the tackles, and so did Staley at full.

Donahue, hard-running fullback, and Kappes, No. 50 halfback, were Rosary's strongest threats, both running hard and low, the latter especially being dangerous around the flanks and on punt returns.

Rosary defeated Circleville last year in the opening, 13-6, all the scoring being in the last half.

Next Friday evening West Jefferson, undefeated in competition last year, invades the high school field, with Robin Pridy, senior fullback, being the fair-haired athlete on the Madison County outfit. A defense to stop his off-tackle slants will be worked on by Coach Black and Assistant Tom Armstrong.

Note: The first paragraph says this game was the first opener not lost since 1936. In that year Circleville defeated Grovesport, 13-0. Don Henry scoring both touchdowns and Bob Denny dropping one point after touchdown.

More notes: Professor C. F. Zaenglein's school band did itself proud in its work before the game and between the halves. The crowd was greatly impressed by the playing of the National Anthem before the game started.

School officials are heaping thanks on Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs for the season ticket campaign they conducted. It was really a success. Those bright red windbreakers the Tigers used were purchased by the Stoope Club. There are 20 of them. The public address system was handled by George Rader and F. K. Blair, the outfit being the property of the latter, who graciously permitted its use. Officiating Friday evening was very good, many fans thought. Both Quarterback Frank Geib and Guard Clark Martin were suffering from head colds, both taking medicine before the game and between halves. Faculty Manager Virgil Cress was afflicted the same way. Tiger punters out-distanced Rosary's, Staley and Moon both getting off some good ones. Estimates on the crowd ran anywhere from 1,000 to 1,500. You can take your choice because just about everyone was there.

ANOTHER FINE MASSILLON TEAM IN CORRECT START

MASSILLON, Sept. 14—The apparently unbeatable Massillon High School Tigers today were well on their way toward another great football season.

Massillon played host to Cathedral Latin of Cleveland in the opening game, before 16,500 fans, and scored almost at will to win 64 to 0.

BLUES NEED ONE GAME TO CLAIM ROLE AS GIANTS FALL IN 5-2 TILT

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14—Today—the second last day of the season—the American Association pennant race may be decided.

The Kansas City Blues booted a chance last night to cinch the flag when they were edged by the third-place Minneapolis Millers, 4 to 3, while second-place Columbus was blanking Louisville, 6 to 0. The Columbus win kept alive the hopes of the Red Birds to cop the pennant, as they are just 2½ games back of the leaders.

Phil Weintraub's 26th homer of the season broke a 3-all deadlock in the ninth to give the Millers the game. Walter Tauscher granted the Blues only five hits in hanging up his 15th triumph.

Four unearned Columbus runs in the fourth stanza broke up what until then had been a pitchers' battle and enabled Murry Dickson to coast to victory. The Columbus hurler allowed only three hits.

If Kansas City wins today, the race is decided. Otherwise, both Columbus and Minneapolis have a chance—Columbus by remaining in front of Minneapolis; Minneapolis only by sweeping the series with the Blues and overtaking Columbus, one game ahead of them.

Toledo bumped Indianapolis, 5 to 1, and Milwaukee and St. Paul split a double-header in the other games last night. Both tilts were decided by one run, the Saints winning the first, 6 to 5, but being shut out in the nightcap, 1 to 0.

TRACK MARK RECORDED

CINCINNATI, Sept. 14—A new American record for a half mile track was written in the books today after a check revealed that Mary Guy, 5-year-old mare owned by Sandra Mills, Toledo, traveled the third heat of the 2:12 trot in 2:04 yesterday at the Carthage Fair oval.

The previous mark was 2:04½, made by Cole Maid last year. The world record, 2:03½, was chalked up by Tara in 1935.

BEGGS IN STAR ROLE AS GIANTS FALL IN 5-2 TILT

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—The pennant-bound Cincinnati Reds were to make their last appearance of the season in the Polo Grounds today, with Milkman Jim Turner gunning for his 12th victory at the expense of the Giants. Hal Schumacher, who has dropped a pair of tilts to the Reds, will oppose him.

Brilliant relief hurling featured yesterday's 5 to 2 giant-killing, in which a trio of Reds hurlers ganged up on Carl Hubbell, screwball king.

Johnny Vander Meer, making his second start since his recall from Indianapolis, became wild in the third and Witt Guise, 32-year-old southpaw rookie, relieved him. Guise then retired in the sixth, when Joe Beggs came in to mark up his eighth straight relief victory.

Two errors by Mel Ott contributed to the Giants' downfall, as they let in two unearned runs.

BULLIES MEET CHIEFS IN FIRST LEAGUE CONTEST

TWO RIVERS, Wis., Sept. 14—The Columbus Bulls football team were moving on Milwaukee today to meet the Milwaukee Chiefs in the opening game of the newly-formed American Professional Football League Sunday.

The other teams in the league will wait a week before going into action. On September 22, New York meets Boston and Milwaukee travels to Buffalo while Cincinnati opens its schedule Oct. 2 in a night game at Buffalo.

STARS SAY—

For Sunday, September 15
SUNDAY'S Horoscope holds testimony of moderate success in whatever may be undertaken. But the spiritual, mystical and emotional affairs are under good auspices. There may be incentive to write poetry, music and other forms of creative expression.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a moderately successful year in commonplace forms, although it might be well to practice composition in drama, music, art and love as well.

A child born on this day will be spiritually endowed, with creative talent in poetry, music, drama and finer expression in art, possibly with modernistic trends.

For Saturday, September 14
THE PLANETARY conditions ruling this day are rather conflicting. It is likely that the house may come tumbling about the ears, or other situation of a devastating or calamitous nature. It might be well to adhere to routine, as it may be difficult to put over any ambitious plans. There is a sign of delays and obstruction, with the mentality disposed to be depressed and frustrated. Tendencies to overdo should be curbed. Postpone where feasible.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a rather slow state of affairs, with matters delayed, or obstructed. Postpone where possible. Also there may be a devastating or disintegrating force in operation. The mind may fluctuate between depression and elation or generous or expansive impulses.

A child born on this day may have a generous and expansive mentality. It may have some eccentricities, although being creative in out of the ordinary run.

TIGERS, INDIANS PULLING AHEAD OF YANK CREW

New York Three Contests Off Pace; Milnar Wins 1-0 From Red Sox

By Ed Kieley

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—You needn't be versed in higher mathematics to prove today the New York Yankees have a long, hard climb ahead before they can overtake the Detroit Tigers and the American League leadership. Simple arithmetic of the two times two variety, will solve such an important problem.

If the closely-knit junior circuit battle continues during the remaining two weeks of the season, it is estimated that the team that wins 90 games will win the pennant. To date, the Yanks have won 76 contests and they have 18 more to play. It follows then that they must win 14 engagements while losing only four, or play precisely .778 ball.

Meanwhile, Detroit has to win only 10 games out of 16 to reach the 90 game mark and Cleveland need capture only 11 out of 17 engagements.

Detroit's Tommy Bridges had has benders breaking in fine style yesterday and he hurled the leading Tigers to an 8 to 0 shut out victory over the New Yorkers. Marius Russo was charged with the loss, his first in eight starts. It also was the Yanks' third straight setback and sent them tumbling three games behind the Tigers and 2½ games in back of the Indians.

Milnar, Bagby Tangle

Luck continued to run against the Boston Red Sox. Jim Bagby tossed a two-hitter against the tribe but still lost, 1 to 0. Al Milnar worked for the Clevelanders an allowed the slugging Bostonians only three hits. Both of Cleveland's hits came in the fourth inning. Roy Weatherly singled and raced to third on Jeff Heath's single and scored while Lou Boudreau was bouncing into a double play.

The Chicago White Sox took complete control of the fourth place position by trimming the Philadelphia Athletics in a double-header, 6 to 2 and 8 to 4. The double victory put the Pale Hose 5½ games off the top and only 2½ games behind the Yanks. The St. Louis Browns defeated the Washington Senators, 7 to 3, before a handful of paid customers.

The National League race, already a cut-and-dried affair, staggered on to an undramatic close. The Reds cuffed the New York Giants, 5 to 2, to maintain their 8½ game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who tripped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8 to 2, for the third consecutive time.

Johnny Vandermeer started for Cincinnati and lasted until the third when he suffered one of his wild streaks, walking three batters and forcing in a run. Rookie Ed Head worked for the Dodgers and won his first victory.

The St. Louis Cardinals finally won a game from the Boston Bees, 9 to 3 and the Philadelphia Phillies surprised the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 1.

PRO GRIDDERS TO START SCHEDULES IN EARNEST

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—Although the season officially opened when the Chicago Cardinals, battled the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7 to 7 stalemate in Pittsburgh last Sunday, a majority of the National Professional Football teams will have their 1940 league baptism in four widely-scattered games tomorrow.

Philadelphia tackles the champion Green Bay Packers at Green Bay; New York travels to Pittsburgh to meet the Pirates; Detroit opens the season in Chicago against the Cardinals, and Brooklyn battles the Red Skins in Washington, D. C.

The Cleveland Rams will wait until next Friday night before inaugurating their season in Philadelphia and the Chicago Bears will lift the lid in Green Bay on September 22.

Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, former coach of the Pitt Panthers, will make his debut as a professional coach in the Dodger-Red Skin fracas. Neil Peterson, assigned to the First Methodist Church, had not yet arrived in Circleville Saturday, those connected with the church said he was expected here in time to lead the Sunday morning service. The Rev. Mr. Peterson has been serving the Thurman Avenue Church, Columbus, and is widely known among Methodists of the district.

The Rev. Charles F. Bowman, pastor of the Circleville church for the last two years, has been transferred to the Toledo district where he will serve the Collingwood church next year.

The Ever-Present God

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Psalm 139.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Whither shall I go from Thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from Thy presence? If I ascend up into heaven, Thou art there; if I make my bed in hell, behold Thou art there.

If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; even there shalt Thy hand lead me, and Thy right hand shall hold me, declares the psalmist.

If I say, Surely the darkness shall cover me; even the night shall be light about me. Yea, the darkness hideth not from Thee; . . . the darkness and the light are alike to Thee.

Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts: And see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting. (GOLDEN TEXT—John 14:23.)

The presence of the Lord.

"If a man love Me, he will keep My word: and My Father will love him, and We will come unto him, and make Our abode with him: —John 14:23.

WAR BENEFITS

IT goes against the grain of a normal American to admit any merits whatever in war, but we have to give Mars his due. The fighting and death and destruction and lowering of civilized ideals and dulling of the finer phases of human life and human nature are all real and deplorable enough, but there's another side to it.

The first thing noticeable when a nation goes to war, or merely undertakes war preparations on a big scale, is the impressive release of human energy. The idle go to work and those who were at work start working harder. Life is speeded up. Production increases. Individuals and society as a whole find that they can do a great deal more than they realized. It is in wartime particularly that the impossible is oftenest accomplished, on the war front or on the home front.

People learn to endure privation, pain and sorrow to a degree that would have seemed impossible in normal times.

Maybe there is benefit in this, too, but if so, it is harder to appreciate. May Americans be spared from it now!

ISLAND LINKS

IT may be no mere chance that brought the Duke of Windsor, former King of England, with his American wife, to assume the governorship of the Bahamas just when he did. Immediately afterward came our acquisition of a strategic string of sea and air bases, stretching from Newfoundland to South America, as outposts in the Atlantic guarding our Continent against European invasion.

The two events may have a definite connection. The job of governing the Bahamas is in itself rather small and unimportant, for a former King and Emperor and a man of known talent. But that assignment of the Duke of Windsor and his American Duchess would take on real significance if it were meant to establish a closer link between the British and American nations, for purposes of mutual defenses.

If this assumption is true, we shall probably be hearing more of Edward and Wallis, and having more to do with them, as British-American cooperation continues. Nassau may be merely a stepping-stone to the United States.

SELF-KNOWLEDGE

KNOWLEDGE of a country's natural assets and how they affect economic and personal life is one of the greatest weapons of defense, says David A. Aylward of Boston, president of the National Wild Life Federation. He urges general education along this line, and shrewdly observes that "no amount of lobbying by pressure groups can accomplish so much as an informed public."

AIDES HOLD UP DEAL

WASHINGTON—A strange situation is brewing inside the National Defense Commission which may get the Roosevelt Administration, to say nothing of the country, into serious trouble.

With the nation desperately needing tin; with the Dutch-Malay tin supply likely to be cut any day by Japan; and with only a limited supply of tin on hand, two men inside the Defense Commission are holding up State Department plans for the smelting of Bolivian tin in the United States. The two men are:

Erwin Vogelsang, formerly connected with two London tin firms, Lewis Lazarus and Sons, and Malcolm Bowley and Son, who has worked all his life in close contact with the British-Patino tin monopoly.

Robert L. Hallett, chief chemist of the National Lead Company, which owns part of the Patino mines and was in on the British tin combine.

These two men are now urging that the United States do business with Simon Patino, the tin king. They don't want the United States to do business with any Patino rivals, and because of their persistent urging the entire transaction has been delayed for two months.

What happened was that the State Department arranged with the Bolivian Government to supply tin ore to be smelted in this country. This would break our dependence on the Patino-British interests which smelt tin only in England or the Malays, with a risky ocean haul to the United States in wartime.

After the State Department thought it had virtually completed arrangements, Vogelsang and Hallett urged that the deal be held up until Patino arrived in the United States. Patino has now been here a month, and still the Defense Commission delays.

Vogelsang and Hallett have used their influence with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to throw the deal to Patino. They say he is the only man who knows how to smelt tin.

But meanwhile the Bolivian Government is doing business with Patino's rival, Mauricio Hochschild, who promises immediate deliveries. Meanwhile also, time flies and the American tin situation becomes increasingly precarious.

BRITISH SITUATION DESPERATE

This column sometimes has been accused of being too pessimistic about Britain's chances of victory. However, we believe it is only fair to the British to report the obstacles they face, and also wise for the American people to realize the future obstacles which they may face. Therefore, we must report further that there is increasing fear inside the U. S. Army and Navy that Britain cannot hold out against Hitler.

In fact, the British situation, at the present writing, must be described as desperate.

This conclusion is based upon the fact that in the past week Nazi planes have assumed complete control of the air over England.

The performance of the Royal Air Force has been gallant and heroic, but of late more spectacular than effective, despite its bombing of Berlin. The ratio of Nazi casualties, as compared to the British, (Continued on Page Six)

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a snappy morning and my opinion soon was confirmed when I saw C. C. Chappeler and Willie Morris in overcoats. Thought I saw indications of frost on a car top or two and later did hear reports of light frost in a few places. Gave Charlie Smith a boost because he had forgotten to turn off the switch of his wagon and the battery was on vacation.

Ran through my mail and came up with a first class peeve, firmly convinced that all the screwballs have turned from attempts at perpetual motion invention and now are coming up starry-eyed with this and that plan to save the world. This particular plan, according to its author, would increase the income of the nation's workers $360,000,000 a week, would immediately tack on an additional five percent profit on all commodities and wouldn't cost anybody a single dime. Isn't that something?

The author sent along a little paper back book, the publication of which probably cost him ten or twelve cents an issue and for which he asks a dollar. Also he urged in his letter that my paper take up the banner for him, sell his books and use the books and the "popularity" of his plan to increase the subscription list of my paper. He says everyone will get an immediate substantial increase in income and poverty will be eliminated. Personally, I am of the opinion that anyone dumb enough to fall for that kind of a program can't even read. And, too, any publisher who would play on need of the poor and the likelihood of a large part of the public to fall for such guff should be ridden out of town on a rail.

Anyone believing that it is possible, and desiring the low down on creating $360,000,000 a week out of thin air may have that dollar "masterpiece" for nothing by calling at my office. If you can read it without anger it is better than Joe Miller's Joke Book. But it isn't worth a cent of your money, or mine either.

In the evening did see the football game, and about everyone in town was there to see our Tigers in a new role. For several years the Tigers have been little more than Kittens, but last night they showed their claws and came out with a tie in their season opener instead of losing it as usual. The kids played a much better brand of ball than has been seen here in some time. Sure, they missed some mighty important blocks at crucial stages and made a few misplays, but they did outplay Holy Rosary in every department. They will profit by those errors and will be an even better team in their next game. We have an exceptionally fine team in the making.

Causes and New Cures For Deafness

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● The commonest form of deafness which occurs in middle age is due to a hardening and fixation of the joint surfaces between the little bones in the middle ear. These bones in health form a readily movable hinge attached on the one side to the ear drum and on the other side of the middle ear to the window of the organ of hearing. When the ear drum vibrates in response to sounds, these bones transmit the finest variation of the vibration to the organ of hearing where the nerve endings of the auditory nerve pick them up and transform them into sound sensations. Obviously if these bones become fixed so that free play of movement is not allowed the hearing will get progressively worse.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

New Improvement

This form of deafness is not well understood and has hitherto baffled attempts at complete cure. But of late more improvement in handling these cases is evident. Last year we reported on the operation devised by a New York otologist which consists of removing the adhesions and bony fixation of the middle ear bones. Within the year I have been privileged to examine a number of patients who had the operation of making an artificial Eustachian tube—an opening into the middle ear which admits air pressure and allows the bones to move freely. These operations have been quite successful.

It has been suggested that nutritional deficiency may contribute to the condition. This idea has been advanced by Dr. Grant Selfridge, of San Francisco. And it requires only a little thought to see that the idea is not far-fetched.

We consider arthritis to be due to infection, nutritional and constitutional factors. The changes in the bones of the middle ear are not so very different from the changes of arthritis—a roughening and fixation of the joint surfaces, a change in the consistency of the temporal bone.

Surrounding Infections

Infection of the nose and throat has long been held to be associated with chronic progressive deafness. Such infections would not occur if the soil were not properly prepared. A deficiency of Vitamins A and D appears quite definitely to lower resistance to infection.

Patients with this condition appear to be in good constitutional health, but valuable information can be gleaned if inquiry is made into their dietary history, which indicates that all is not as well as would appear on the surface. Not only Vitamins A and D are found to be lacking, but Vitamin B, which has such an influence on the nerve fibers. Gray considered the auditory nerve involvement as primary in these cases and the bony changes as secondary.

In actual practice patients with high tone loss were found to respond favorably to feeding of concentrated Vitamins A, B, C and D. The concentrated B-complex was from California. B-complex was used in these studies. In early cases with beginning loss the vitamin concentrates did much to restore most of the hearing.

CHAPTER TWENTY

AFTER the shave Gun felt so much better that he was able to watch Tommy tuck away a hearty English breakfast of eggs, bacon, toast and marmalade, of which Sambo was plainly inordinately proud, and decidedly hurt because Gun would not partake.

"It's a barbarian habit to eat breakfast," he pronounced, as he sipped a cup of coffee. "Next door to cannibalism, in my opinion."

"You may be right," said Tommy. "But in that case I'm a barbarian every time."

He took the opportunity to ask, in a low voice, while Sambo was out of the room:

"Look here, microphones or no mikes, we've got to have a wow-wow pretty soon, you and I. How do we manage—I mean so that we can talk reasonably freely?"

"The only safe place is a nice open space," Gun replied, in the same tone. "After you've finished making a beast of yourself, we'll go out and sit in the sunshine—and in the middle of the lawn."

"Good fellow!" grinned Tommy. "Two heads are better than one!"

Breakfast over, this plan was put into effect. They sprawled on their backs, puffing blue smoke into the air while they talked.

"What about this early birding?" Tommy asked. "I gather you found out something."

"Not much," admitted Gun. "But not so bad, considering. For instance, I discovered that all our guards are actually mechanics. Their hands, as well as their dress, told me that much. Also one is most certainly a Prussian, who has served in the army, and another is almost equally certainly an Italian. His back when I whistled one of his favorite national airs to him gave that away. I also tried him on revolutionary tunes, but the results were negative. All I can say is that they attracted his attention, but whether he loved 'em or hated 'em, I'm damned if I know."

"Hard luck," said Tommy. And then: "Yes, I can see what you're after, I think."

"Well, here's the situation as I see it. The missing bomber hasn't crashed into the sea, or anything like that. She's been piloted and kidnapped, presumably in much the same manner as we were. They know—or suspect—that at Whitehall, and so we were sent up as a little bit of ground bait, so to speak. Well, the fish has swallowed us, all right—but the great question is, what kind of fish is it?"

"You mean, who'd have an interest in pinching our latest planes?" "That's about it! Now, it might be some move on the part of an international gang of either-fascists or communists—hence the trying out of revolutionary tunes. Or it might be an attempt to get planes for Spain—presumably for the government side—the others seem to get plenty. Or it might be just a move by some country that intends to go to war with us soon. Or, again, it might be just a plain gang of mercenary criminals with some need for the latest type of airplanes! That's one of the things we've got to find out!"

"They'll get a hell of a disappointment when they give poor little X. O. O. the once over!" grinned Tommy. "Apart from the fooling with her shape, she's about as up to date as the Ark!"

"Yes," Gun frowned. "But that's a drawback, let me tell you."

"Is it?" Tommy seemed surprised. "Why?"

"Because it may make them sus-

"You think we're on an island around the Greek archipelago?" Tommy suggested.

pect that we just allowed ourselves to be caught, as we did. And that's the last thing in the world we want them to think."

"True enough!" agreed Tommy, gravely. "We'll have to try to do a way out of that, somehow! Do you think they brought that bomber out here, wherever it is?"

"I imagine so!"

"Well, she had three men aboard. What's happened to them, anyway?"

"They're probably here, somewhere. Perhaps they think it better to keep us apart, so we can't compare notes!"

Tommy was eyeing him gravely. "You sound a bit doubtful about it, Gun."

"I am!"

"You mean they may have—"

"Been knock on the head. Yes."

"But why knock THEM on the head, and let us live—and like fighting cocks, at that?"

"That's very simple. You're known as an inventor and designer of planes. And I'm supposed to be your assistant, remember! They think they can get something out of us—or out of you, at any rate! That's the answer!"

"By God, but they'll be unlucky," frowned Tommy, an ugly expression coming into his eyes.

"Steady, my friend," Gun admonished him. "Remember we're here for a purpose—and, in order to do that, we've got to play up to them a bit! We—"

But Tommy showed a sudden streak of obstinacy.

"That may be your job, Gun, but it isn't mine. I'm under no sort of orders. And, while I'm always prepared to hold a candle to the devil, I'll be damned if I'll hold so much as a match to a gang of bloody pirates and murderers."

Gun eyed him with some anxiety, foreseeing unexpected complications.

"Look here, Tommy," he said quietly. "Just be sensible, will you? You say you're under no sort of orders—well, you're wrong. You're under MY orders. You were told that before we went up. And—"

"Just a minute!" Tommy's mouth was set in a straight, thin line. "Your mistake! I was acting as your pilot, and under your orders while we were in the air. But we're on the ground now and, without offense, Gun, I don't hold myself at the orders of any civilian!"

And from that position, argue though he might, Gun could not shift him.

Suddenly Gun sat upright. "Hullo, what's wrong now?"

Gun's face had taken on a peculiar expression. He seemed at once to be staring, listening and smelling.

"What the devil . . . ?" Tommy began.

"Has it ever occurred to you that in some ways we possess a sixth sense?" Gun asked, rather dreamily. "A knowledge that comes to us without either seeing, smelling, hearing, touching or tasting—and yet, perhaps, is a combination of all five?"

Tommy looked concerned. "Here, stow it, Gun. You're flying miles above my head. What are you getting at, anyway?"

"Just this," answered Gun. "If I've been in any part of the world once, and I get to that same part again, without any real knowledge of where I am, I believe that I can tell it. For instance, if I were suddenly transported to, say, Mexico, I believe I should know where I was, after a little while, without any definite clue of any sort. Or in America, or Germany, or England!"

"Well . . . ?"

"Just this. Some time ago I happened to be in the Greek archipelago on a little matter of business—and . . . well, somehow this place FEELS the same to me. That's the only way I can describe it—'FEELS'!"

"You think, then, that we're on an island somewhere around the Greek archipelago?" exclaimed Tommy, eagerly.

"That's about it!" Gun nodded. "Well, that's useful—if it's right. If only we knew for certain . . . !"

"Ah," agreed Gun, "if only we knew . . . ! Hullo . . . !" he broke off abruptly, then went on: "Here comes the Trent merchant, and not looking too pleased with himself, either. We'd better stroll inside—or we shall have him sticking microphones in the lawn, and we shall want SOMEWHERE where we can talk in safety! Come on!"

Patriotic Trend Shown In New Flower Styles

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Brehmer, who along with almost 3,000 other florists, attended the convention of the Florist's Telegraph Delivery Association in Cincinnati this week, report that corsages and other novelty flower arrangements take on a patriotic appearance this year as demonstrated by nationally-known flower stylists during the two days school held in connection with the convention.

These artists from the style centers of the east, west, north, and south demonstrated during the school how best to use flowers and blooming pot plants.

Twin corsages of red and white flowers and bracelets of red, white and blue flowers were shown. An unusual arrangement was one in which twin corsages of carnations were attached to chains of the lanyard type to be worn across the ladies' chest, just as admirals in full regalia wear their decorations.

Although the field for women's dress fashions has been upset by the elimination of Paris as a style center, the flower industry does not have the same problem because, according to Mr. Brehmer, international flower styling has been established yearly at the schools held by the Florist's Telegraph Delivery Association.

The Pompadour vogue is sure to add to the popularity of wearing fresh flowers in the hair. Matching flower arrangements for the hat and bag are considered truly smart and flower petal hats and Juliet caps will be popular for the bride. Since most of the lily of the valley that the florists force into bloom at all times of the year comes from Germany, the supply of this is very limited and stephanotis from California is rapidly taking the place of valley for wedding arrangements.

In spite of war conditions in Europe, it is still possible to send flowers by wire to most foreign countries. The increasing use of flowers by wire is shown in the annual report of the association showing last year to have been very much ahead of any previous year.

PUBLIC SPEAKING TO BE STRESSED

Public speaking has received added emphasis as a study in C. H. S. curriculum this year. Here-to-for the subject was only minor and carried but part of an academic credit. Now school officials have put the class on a rating with other school subjects. Samuel R. Johnson is the instructor.

Pupils enrolled for this speech work meet each day during the second period and will receive a full credit for the year's activity. Several phases of speech work will be studied, first semester laying stress on debate and the second on dramatics.

Mr. Johnson has said that debaters will work with the class during the first half of the school year. This has many advantages over last year's schedule.

Circleville high's debate season promises to be very active with five lettermen, William Burget, Marvin Henness, Lloyd Jones, Leland Siegwald and Paul Turner and several underclassmen anxious to begin their daily sessions with coach Johnson.

Question to be debated by the Ohio High School Speech League this year is, "Resolved: That the Power of the Federal Government Should be Increased."

IMPROVEMENTS NOTED AT C. H. S.

Returning to school Monday pupils of the Circleville city district noticed many improvements in their surroundings.

During the summer, repairs were made throughout the Circleville schools.

In the high school, a few rooms were newly plastered, new thermostats installed, the floors in class rooms and gymnasium given a protective coating of varnish.

Bicycle racks, made by the Hi-Y club, have been installed at the rear of the high school building.

At present, the racks accommodate approximately sixty bicycles. More will be set up as soon as they are painted.

Permanent record files have been placed in the principal's office for the pupils' records. Mr. Watts is in charge of three hundred dollars worth of new chemical equipment.

On the outside, cross-street pedestrian lanes have been marked; also parallel parking zones on both Court and Mill street have been designated.

Minor repairs were made in the grade schools including scattered paint jobs and furnace repairs.

NEW PEP SQUAD TO BE SELECTED

Cheerleaders are preparing for this season's athletic meets. Mary Crites and Paul Siegwald fill the shoes of the '40 graduates, Pat Bennett, Mary Fickard and Jack Funk. Peg Goeller, heading the squad is at present holding try-outs for new helpers.

Only juniors and seniors are eligible for positions this year. At present, Betty Clifton, Edna Morrison and Stella Mae Skinner are trying for the vacancies.

LIBRARIAN JOINS SCHOOL FACULTY FOR FIRST TIME

For many years the Circleville high school library has been without a full-time librarian, but this year the schedule is changed. Miss Gretchen Moeller, the new librarian, is there at all times to assist students in choosing and finding the books they desire. At the present time she is without help but hopes to obtain a staff of assistants soon.

One hundred five new volumes have been added to the library. These include books on poetry, travel and adventure, biography, aviation, social sciences and home economics.

Miss Moeller is planning to obtain a state loan of books to be on the shelves throughout the school year for the students' use.

Daniel Pfoutz, head librarian at the public library, has consented to cooperate with our school library in lending books under special topics.

PUPILS PUBLISH RED AND BLACK

Monday morning the journalism class of C. H. S. resumed preparation for publication of the weekly "Red and Black." This year the staff numbers twelve people who work under the direction of faculty adviser Miss Margaret A. Mattinson. The "Red and Black" contains weekly news items of high school activities and various editorial works of pupils.

Rose Anne Griner, editor and Paul Turner, assistant head of the paper's staff for the first editions. Other pupils enrolled in the third period class are Glenn Barnhart, Margaret Boggs, Mary Ann Bosworth, William Burget, Frank Geib, Wanda Grabbill, Marvin Henness, Walter Leist, Norma Jean Starkey and Eleanor Weaver.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors may take the journalism course if they are making not less than a B average in English. Credit for the year's work ranges from one fourth to one half depending upon the amount and quality of the work the individual does.

EIGHT TRANSFER TO HIGH SCHOOL

This year Circleville high school has added eight new pupils to its enrollment.

It is with pleasure that the student body welcomes Marilyn Campbell, a junior from Atlanta; Anna Ruth Denbaugh, a freshman from Grove City; Willard DeLong, freshman from Pickaway Township.

PUPILS RESUME STUDIES MONDAY

Locker doors banging, giggles, chattering—these varied sounds echoed through the long-silent halls of C. H. S. Monday, when pupils resumed classes after three months' vacation. Pupils' reactions differed. Some were genuinely glad to be back, other were not so pleased, while many were just indifferent.

This week was spent chiefly in adjustments—arranging schedules and becoming familiar with new classes. Freshmen finally discovered their proper classrooms and a few sophomore girls got used to the fact that they are no longer freshmen. Juniors already began to prepare for a busy year, while seniors grew accustomed to their new position as the oldest and traditionally wisest and most dignified class.

By next week the novelty and confusion of returning to school will be over and work will begin in earnest. Our football team seems promising and with concentration and cooperation by everyone C. H. S. can rank high both in athletics and in scholastics during the coming school year.

OFFICE FORCES

This school year finds Norma Brown and Iona Quince, seniors, Betty Herkless and Audrey Weaver, juniors, busily writing out excuses, typing absence lists and carrying out various other duties in the principal's office.

Meanwhile, Louise Bowsher, '37 and Norma Wolfe, senior, are carrying on the duties of office girls in the superintendent's office.

MAKING READY
Today one of the most inviting topics for general discussion and analysis is that of war and its effects upon this country. To me, an interesting comparison of youth's part in this drama is that while 'teen age children of Europe continue their marching to appease hungry war lords, American youth has resumed its march to and from its field of victories—high school.

With existing surroundings high school pupils have become aware of their role in our program of preparations for rebuilding the world. One can easily observe an unusually sincere attitude on the part of local pupils as they go about their high school studies. Events happening during the past three months have stirred initiative in most of them.

After the present battles, someone must be ready to rebuild the world. America being one of the foremost and largest nations remaining in peaceful adaptations makes her the likely country to be a nucleus of the "after storm" restoration efforts. In-as-much as present youth will be the citizens making up our initiative government at the close of the present strife and because America will probably be the backbone of the efforts to restore normal living in the world, American youth must and is making ready for its part in the aftermath.

An example of this effort can be seen in Circleville high school, which can be considered a representative school of this country. Pupils, realizing the task ahead of them, have begun in earnest to "make ready."

Following every war people return to domestic and finer things of life. Someone must be ready to restore culture to all people. Many of our high school students are preparing for this task by their efforts in literary, musical and other art fields. When the time comes they will be ready to teach the world once again what it so often has forgotten in time of hate.

While European scientists are busy in their program of "weapons for war" we must continue research in other fields. Those who are today studying science in our high schools must not allow medical and scientific protection to become a thing of the past.

Economics will play one of the most important parts in our rebuilding of the world. Circleville high school's economists together with other American citizens will be responsible for constructing a new world system of production and distribution. These are but a few of the tasks that will confront today's youth in the "world of tomorrow."

With complete teaching facilities in a broad curriculum and an increased effort on the part of its students, Circleville high school is making ready part of the citizens of tomorrow who will have to help carry the torch to relight the world after present darkness.

—Paul Turner.

SENIOR RESERVE HAS FOOD BOOTH

Cleanup that corner! Stop sweeping that dirt on the part I cleaned! My knees hurt! These were some of the comments heard around the football booth Thursday afternoon. Various Senior Girl Reserves with the aid of brooms, rags, buckets and scrub brushes were attempting to clean it before the game Friday night.

Mary Adele Snider, chairman, Miriam Brown, Norma Brown, Janet Funk, Mary Lou Koehleiser and Mary K. Pile composed the cleanup committee.

Between halves Friday night, there was great commotion and stir around the booth as hungry spectators clamored for hot dogs, pop, peanuts and candy.

Behind the counters Friday evening were Helen Beck, Margaret Edds, Betty Clifton, Dorothy Ann Dresbach, Marvonne Henness, Eleanor Weaver, Norma Wolfe and Phyllis Young.

73 ARE SENIORS; FRESHMEN LEAD WITH 124 PUPILS

Throughout the week, pupils and teachers have been adjusting themselves to new schedules, new subjects and new classes. Freshmen, 124 strong, have been introduced to high school subjects, and 108 pupils, freshmen last year, have now assumed the rank of sophomores. There are 101 in the junior class, 73 seniors and 3 post-graduates. The total high school enrollment is 19 fewer than last year's number.

During an assembly, Monday morning, Principal J. Wray Henry assigned home rooms. Miss Gretchen Moeller, Miss Elma Rains, Miss Margaret Rooney, and Miss Eleanor Ryan are in charge of freshmen rooms; Virgil Cress, Mrs. Rosemary Mader and Miss Mariel Sayre, sophomore; Samuel R. Johnson and Fred Watts, junior; Thomas Armstrong, and Miss Margaret Mattinson senior.

Subjects taught by the faculty members this year are: Thomas Armstrong—social civics, world history, assistant coach; Roy M. Black—coach and physical education, American history, vocations and geography; Florence Brown—geography 8, physical education 8; Virgil M. Cress—commercial, manager of athletics; Joseph J. Horst—arithmetic 8 and 9, business training; Samuel R. Johnson—English 9 and 10, debating, dramatics, speech; Mrs. Rosemary Mader—business training, American history, world history; Margaret Mattinson—mathematics, journalism.

F. Zaenglein—manual arts, orchestra and band; Mrs. Brunelle Downing—supervisor of art; Mrs. Grace Kiger—supervisor of vocal music.

October 4 Greenfield there
October 11 Groveport here

BAND ORGANIZES FOR '40-'41 YEAR

For three weeks the Circleville high school band, with leader C. F. Zaenglein, has held practices twice a week in preparation for the coming football season. The band will give a marching display between halves of homes football games.

This year the enrollment, of the band numbers 58, the same as last year. Mr. Zaenglein told the members of the band that in the 20 years he has been instructor in Circleville schools he has directed no band that was in better condition at the beginning of the year than the present one.

ASHVILLE

Gordon Hinkle, a former high school youngster here in the senior class of 1907, has, with his wife, been here from Long Beach, California, for the last couple of weeks. Has been in that coastal city for the last fifteen years with employment in a bank. Likes it there very much with climate mild the year around. Occasionally buildings and everything get the jitters and move around some but finally stop and all the live ones go right along until the next time. His father, William Hinkle and his brother Greydon are both there and have employment. And in the reminiscing of the high school basketball days when the Beavers, Stokers and Hickles and the now Rev. Elmer Swoyer, too, included, it took some rough and tough bunch to go away with a victory to their credit, he thought.

Mrs. Altha Scothorn told us that she was well pleased with her public sale of chattel property Thursday. Weather fine, attendance large, prices good and the Scioto Valley grange with their lunch was well patronized. Walter Bumgarner, auctioneer, Ray Plum and Harry Margulis, clerks.

The St. Paul Lutheran church chicken supper Thursday evening received a splendid patronage, near five hundred suppers being served. Sterley Foreman and family have removed this week from what is known as the Barcus farm to his own home on West Main Street and once the Dr. D. H. Squire property.

Her brother-in-law and sister, Fred Heinberger and wife, Columbus were guests at the home of Mrs. Blodwin Johnson Thursday. Mr. Heinberger is one of the teaching force at O. S. U. Leroy Hoover and wife are now residents of Jefferson Avenue having removed there this week.

The operator of an auto bearing the state of Washington license plate got "the once over", same thing as "the third", yesterday, and found him to have once been a real Western cowboy, having been born and reared in Montana. Knows the whole of the West and his talk was very interesting. He is a salesman having recently been transferred from Washington to Ohio with headquarters at Columbus. Likes both our country and the people here along with good sales.

Bomb Smashes German Dwelling

THIS Berlin apartment building was shattered when struck by a bomb during a British raid over the German capital, according to the German censor, who claims it was among the non-military objectives bombed by the British. It was admitted, however, that the British flyers also had damaged the Potsdammer railroad station in the heart of Berlin and had dropped incendiary bombs on the Reichstag building.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

ish, has dropped. British pilots, spending longer hours than any expert ever contemplated, are weary and jaded.

British airplane production has kept up better than expected and 900 new planes per month take the air. But this merely supplies reinforcement. And 900 planes in a month are nothing when you realize that 2,000 Nazi bombers sometimes come over England in a day.

U. S. AID?

In view of these developments, two important questions are under discussion in Washington today.

One is what further help the United States can give Britain to keep her fighting.

Two is joint Anglo-American defense plans in case England falls. Regarding their first, the British already have made it clear that what would help their cause tremendously would be the purchase of U. S. Army flying fortresses, and the loan of the famous U. S. bombsight.

Acquisition of these would permit the British to carry the war into the camp of the enemy as never before. U. S. military strategists figure that England's slow preparedness start never can catch up with the Nazis; therefore best British strategy is to continue to rain bombs over Hamburg and Berlin.

To this end they would also like to get the famous bombsight which the Army and Navy have perfected and which is supposed to be the most accurate in the world.

Whether they will get flying fortresses and the bombsight, however is doubtful. Agreement by both Roosevelt and Willkie probably would be necessary, plus the consent of U. S. Army and Navy leaders, who guard their secrets jealously.

IF BRITAIN FALLS

Meanwhile, and of necessity, confidential discussions of what the United States will do if Britain falls have intensified. They hinge around the hope that most of the British fleet can cooperate with the United States in defending the Western Hemisphere.

Also they hinge around the strategy of a continued blockade of Europe. After all, Hitler must feed Europe after he gets it, also Germany must have certain strategic materials such as tin and rubber. The British fleet, still in control of the Indian Ocean, together with the U. S. fleet in the Western Hemisphere can enforce an effective blockade.

Note—Those who have talked with President Roosevelt in the last few days find him completely absorbed with Britain's desperate predicament.

DEFENSE JAM-BUSTER

Donald Nelson, for many years executive of the Sears, Roebuck mail-order house, now has become one of the chief log-jam busters of the United States Treasury — in other words, in charge of government purchases.

Recently the Navy Department sent a very important order to Bethlehem Steel Corporation with a preference number to expedite it for the earliest possible delivery. The next day word came back from Bethlehem: "Sorry, but you will have to wait."

For some unexplained reason the Navy said nothing to the Defense Commission about Bethlehem's delay, even though the commission has the power to compel compliance. Instead the Navy tried to handle the situation itself. But after two weeks of unsuccessful effort, the Navy finally went to Nelson, who in addition to his procurement duties aids the Defense Commission.

Nelson reached for a telephone, called Walter Tower, secretary of the American Iron and Steel Institute, and said, "I hope we don't have to get tough, but when an order goes out marked 'expedite,' it means just that: I want immediate action on that order."

Twenty minutes later, Eugene Grace, potent boss of Bethlehem, personally telephoned Nelson and assured him it was all a mistake.

Through some misunderstanding a subordinate had misinterpreted the matter and it would not happen again.

"We are not only going to work on that order at once," purred Grace, "but we are going to do everything within our power to get it completed before the required date. I want to assure you we are anxious to cooperate in every way possible. This is a very unfortunate error."

Note—Although Nelson and John Biggers, Ohio glass manufacturer who is Knudsen's assistant, are not members of the Defense Commission, they attend all its meetings and act as commissioners.

BOARDS TO BE NAMED

No Date Received As Yet For National Guard To Get Into Action

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14 — With final passage of the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill expected momentarily, the state of Ohio today rushed to completion tentative plans for registering its thousands of young men of draft age.

The plans, which of course are subject to revision by the war department, were outlined in rough draft form by Gov. John W. Bricker at his press conference.

In brief, they are as follows: County boards of election, working under Secretary of State George M. Neffner, will have charge of actual registration of men in the 21 to 31-year age bracket. Registrations will be carried out in much the same manner as an election, the men filling out military service blanks in their own precinct voting booths.

County common pleas judges will be asked by the governor to recommend persons to serve on county draft boards. Their recommendations will be passed on to the president who has the final voice.

District Courts of Appeals will be called upon to nominate draft appeals boards to review the cases of men who feel they should not be conscripted.

In addition, the governor will recommend to the president personnel for a statewide draft board which would have general supervision in Ohio.

The Ohio State Medical Association will be asked to recommend ten or more physicians in each county to make up the medical examination division.

Home Guard Talked

Bricker revealed that he has discussed with Adjutant General Gilson D. Light plans for creating a home guard to serve in the absence of regular national guard troops called to duty.

Sources close to the governor said he probably would make every effort to have General Light remain at his present cabinet post, feeling that he would be more valuable there than in the field with his national guard unit. Light, a major general, commands the 37th division.

Light's services would be needed at home in setting up the home guard and handling other phases of Ohio's participation in the national defense program, it was stated.

At 58, Light is nearing the retirement age of 64 years. He has been a member of the National Guard for 41 years. He entered the World War as a private and was mustered out with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

The adjutant general has received no word from the War Department concerning the date when Ohio's national guardsmen will be called for active duty.

FOUR CASES OF SCARLET FEVER LISTED IN CITY

Healthiers Believe Fear Of Spread Of Disease Ended; All Concentrated

LANCASTER CHILD DIES

Boy, 2, Ill Only Five Hours; Toll Now 20; School At Sandusky Closed

Circleville health officials declared Saturday that they believed they had an outbreak of scarlet fever concentrated into just one part of the city, and that there was no danger of other cases breaking out.

Four quarantines have been placed in the Mill and Court Street district.

No other cases have been reported, Health Commissioner Karl Herrmann said.

Active cases are Richard Haynes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haynes, East Mill Street; Jack Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Young, East Mill Street; Virginia Greiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Greiner, South Court Street and Shirley Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thomas, East Mill Street.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14 — The death of two-year-old Herman Brandon in Lancaster city hospital five hours after he was admitted for infantile paralysis treatment today brought to 20 the number of deaths in the state since the disease became widespread about June 10.

Meanwhile, the illness of Evelyn Downing, 8, was diagnosed as paralysis, resulting in the closing of the York Centralized School, in Sandusky County, the state health department reported. The school has an enrollment of about 275 pupils.

INSPECTORS TO TEST DISTRICT MILK SUPPLIES

Instituting action against butter showing a high mold mycelia count or considerable contamination, the Federal Food and Drug Administration will send to Pickaway County within the next thirty days inspectors to test milk supplies.

Action is being taken on the grounds that a high mycelia count in the butter indicates that some of the cream used in the manufacture of the butter was not of good quality. Butter made from such cream is considered adulterated within the meaning of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, although mold mycelia are not harmful to health.

Manufacturers of butter, in order not to become liable under this act, will be compelled to use more care in selecting the cream they buy, according to Pure Food and Drug officials. Reasonable care must be taken in the production of cream to prevent mold contamination, they said, since mold spores are found generally of feeds fed to the cow, in stable dust and in the air, and these mold spores grow rapidly in warm cream.

Milk inspectors warned that cows and utensils must be kept clean. Strainer cloths should not be used. Cream must be cooled immediately in cold water and Having an inexperienced partner is not necessarily always a handicap. If the hands that come along give the stronger member of the pair a chance to take the initiative, there may even be occasions on which he makes out better than if he had a thoroughly expert partner opposite him. Most of the time he will do best by taking the same action as with a strong associate, but in certain spots he will change his tactics in order to outwit skillful adversaries.

West here took the bit in his teeth with most unorthodox action when he leaped to 4-Hearts. He showed commendable restraint in not doubling the 5-Clubs, for fear that his partner might take out into diamonds or the opponents might bid that suit and find a good fit. The way he acted, his partner, a most conservative and almost timid player who had not been at the game very long, did nothing but pass.

As it developed, West got the best score of all in the duplicate in which this hand arose, as South was set three tricks, with three lost in trumps and two in spades.

At every other table, with normal bidding from West, North and South got into a diamond contract and made a grand slam by means of a cross-ruff that set up clubs on which North's three spades were parked, since spades were not led.

West confided after the hand that his only reason for making his lousy heart jump was to cut off communication between his skillfully-drilled opponents and remove from them the original advantage with which they came to his table.

DESTRUCTION OF CITY PROMISED IN EIGHT DAYS

(Editor's Note: Previously, German officials said that Buckingham Palace was hit accidentally during a raid on oil tanks nearby.)

LONDON, Sept. 13—A delayed action bomb which fell on the grounds of Buckingham Palace during yesterday's raid exploded today, destroying part of the railings fronting the official London residence of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Elaborate precautionary measures, taken before the time-bomb let loose, prevented further or more serious damage.

Authorities, who permitted revelation of this news, said that six bombs—not five as first reported—struck Buckingham Palace and the surrounding grounds during yesterday's daylight German raid.

At the same time it was disclosed that famed Westminster Abbey was slightly damaged by the explosion of a powerful bomb which narrowly missed the historic edifice during last night's eight-hour raid.

When the bomb fell near the Abbey, it was revealed, the 17th century west window depicting the Biblical prophets, known to millions of tourists who have visited the abbey, was slightly damaged.

A few small squares in the window were broken, but authorities said they can be replaced easily.

The Abbey, where British sovereigns have been buried for centuries and where King George VI and his predecessors have been crowned in ceremonies of regal magnificence, had its narrow escape from disaster only a few hours before German planes renewed their daylight sorties against London but failed to reach the city.

Planes Over Seven Cities During the forenoon, as raiders punched unsuccessfully at the capital, seven northeastern English towns, including several on the coast, reported German machines flying overhead.

Two new air raid alarms were sounded in London, the seventy-third and seventy-fourth of the war. Each was of 16 minutes' duration. The first sounded at 9:26 a. m. (3:26 a. m. EST) and the second at 11 a. m. (5 a. m. EST).

It appeared evident that German raiders were attempting, with little success so far, to duplicate yesterday's attacks in which Buckingham Palace and the House of Lords were struck by bombs.

The first alarm in London this morning followed appearance of an enemy plane over a town to the southeast. Apparently this raider was driven off by British fighters.

The second sounded after spot- ters to the southeast sighted another lone German raider speeding toward the capital over a cloud formation. Anti-aircraft guns went into action.

In addition it was disclosed that during the earlier alarm German planes appeared over the Thames Estuary, while just before the second sounded Nazi bombers were reported over southwest England and Wales.

Simultaneously reports reached London revealing that five persons were killed and a number of houses were demolished when a

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES, O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: There are several evergreen shrubs in front of our house and the enclosed leaf will show you what kind they are. They are planted about two feet from the house and exposed to the afternoon sun but just recently about a quarter of the leaves have started to turn brown. Is this natural or is something wrong with them? Mrs. Z., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: The arborvitae which you have sheds its leaves at this time of the year and it is perfectly normal for some of the smaller branches, especially toward the center of the plants, to turn brown and drop off.

QUESTION: Should gladioli and peonies be cut to the ground after blooming? Mrs. R. S., Long Bottom.

ANSWER: The foliage of peonies should be left on until fall. If cut off before that it will usually interfere with their bloom the following season. The foliage of your gladioli should be left on until it normally starts to turn brown at which time the gladioli can be dug and stored in the cellar for the winter.

QUESTION: I have two flowering dogwoods planted three years ago in partial shade. Since then they have at least doubled in size, the foliage is thick, both shrubs seem to be in perfect condition, but they never bloom except for one or two flowers although they had loads of berries when transplanted. What can be the reason for the lack of bloom?

ANSWER: Unless the flowering dogwoods are grown under more or less favorable conditions, they may be very shy-bloomers. Possibly the acidification of your soil by the application of aluminum sulfate or powdered sulfur might enable them to produce flower buds next summer for bloom the following spring. Apply about one pound per square yard of soil surface and cultivate it into the soil. It has been my observation that quite often dogwoods will grow and bloom better if grown with ample organic matter in the soil rather than the normal clay soil that is in most Ohio yards.

QUESTION: Will you please send me directions for cutting a four-foot barberry hedge? It has grown tall and is only green on the top and looks bad. How low should this hedge be cut and at what time of the year? The hedge is about 18 years old. Mrs. H. A. W., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: I would suggest that you cut the barberry hedge clear to the ground preferably next spring just about the time the buds are starting to develop. At the same time I would fertilize it with a complete commercial fertilizer with an analysis of 4-12-4 using about one pound to five or six feet of hedge. I would scatter this from the base of the shrubs to a point two or three feet out from the base.

QUESTION: I would like to know how to start rhododendrons from a grown tree. Can a piece be taken from the tree and be started to grow? I have tried but have not been successful. Mrs. H. M., Middleport.

ANSWER: Although it is possible to grow rhododendrons from cuttings, even the commercial nurserymen have extreme difficulty in doing so. In fact many of them seem to have better success growing them from a leaf with just a bit of the twig and bud at the base of the leaf. I suggest, since they are so difficult to propagate (even the wild form which is grown from seed), that you purchase small plants from some nursery and grow them yourself. You will find that rhododendrons require an acid soil preferably made up of at least half humus and must be kept away from too much direct sunlight.

QUESTION: Will you please tell me what climate, soil, etc. are best suited to the cultivation of the English holly? I have read that it has been grown in the northwestern section of the United States in Oregon and Washington. Are other sections of this country suitable and if not why not? Mrs. G. C. B., Cincinnati.

ANSWER: The English holly is a native of the southwestern section of the United States and is well adapted to the climate and soil of that section. It is not well adapted to the climate and soil of the northwestern section of the United States.

MUMAW CLAIMS HERE ARE FACTS $10 BORROWED ON DRAFT BILL FROM W. HICKEY

Testimony Of Open Gambling In Circleville Heard At Friday Hearing

(Continued from Page One) you give Mumaw the $10?" Hickey stalled. Leist asked again "if you were not operating a poker game, why did you give him the $10?" Hickey replied: "I was operating a poker game, but not at that time." Hickey continued his testimony, saying that Brink and McCrady had come to see him about filing an affidavit against Mumaw. Later in his testimony, he denied that he knew he was signing an affidavit charging Mumaw with bribery.

Don Eitel, manager of The Sportsman, testified that on August 18 he had seen Mumaw in his establishment in conversation with Walisa, and Eitel added that as Mumaw left the building he said "I see I'm going to have to knock off another poker game."

Eitel said that later in the evening when he and Mumaw were drinking beer in an East Main Street establishment, Mumaw had told him that the city was not paying him his salary and added "I'm going to let you boys buy my coal this winter."

Mumaw later denied the charges. Mrs. Walisa testified that Mumaw had come to the Walisa home many times during the summer, and that he had stopped there on August 18.

James Wickensimer, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, proceeded with his testimony. He said that on August 19, he had met Mumaw and Brink, that the three of them had gone to Hickey's and that he gave Mumaw $10 to repay the money the patrolman had "borrowed" from Hickey. Hickey accepted the money, he said.

Both the testimony of Wickensimer and Joe Brink which followed, tended to confirm the idea that when Hickey signed the affidavit against Mumaw, he did not know it charged the patrolman with bribery.

Witnesses for the suspended patrolman, Mayor William Cady, Patrolman George Green and Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick contended that on August 18 they had had close associations with Mumaw and that they had no reason to believe him intoxicated, as Chief McCrady's witnesses had testified. Mayor Cady told the court that he felt Mumaw was a courteous patrolman and qualified as an officer. When asked "Have you ever given any orders to the Police Department to stop gambling," he answered "Yes, sir."

Mumaw denied all the bribery charges filed against him. He admitted that on August 18 he had borrowed $10 from Hickey, but emphatically denied that he had promised Hickey any protection.

The phrase which was taken up by Sen. Scott W. Lucas, mid-west manager of the Democratic campaign, was delivered when Willkie under the impression that he was in Chicago made some reference to the city.

"You're not in Chicago, you're in Cicero," someone in the audience called. "All right," said Willkie "to hell with Chicago. We're away from the Kelly-Nash machine."

Within an hour, typewriters in Democratic headquarters were rolling hot.

"He has done more than defame Chicago," said Lucas in a lengthy statement. "He has defamed Illinois which is proud of its great city and the people in it."

Nevertheless Willkie received one of the greatest ovations in the city's history in the loop district and thousands heard him through at each of the locations where he spoke.
